Philosophy
A majority of children presenting to primary care clinics have a dermatologic complaint, whether primary or secondary. Primary care training programs have traditionally offered little formal dermatology instruction for their residents, and the current era of managed care is mandating that a larger proportion of these diseases be managed by the primary care physician and/or nurse practitioner.

This course will focus on practical pediatric dermatology for the primary care provider, with emphasis on correct diagnosis, therapeutic options and clinical pearls. The target audience is dermatologists, pediatricians, family practitioners, nurse practitioners and residents in these programs.

Lectures this year will cover the recognition, diagnosis and treatment of bacterial skin infections, drug reactions, dermatological disorders in children with skin of color, exanthems, acne vulgaris, hyperhidrosis, atopic dermatitis, moles and melanoma, disorders of hair and nails, skin signs of internal disease and pediatric dermatology pearls. There will be two “Guess the Diagnosis!” lectures, with pediatric dermatology textbooks awarded at the end of the day for the top attendee scorers. The day will conclude with an open “Ask the Pediatric Dermatologist” panel session.

Educational objectives

At the conclusion of the course, participants should be able to:

• Identify common and important skin disorders in infants, children and adolescents
• Discuss the appropriate management for some common skin disorders and the underlying bases for their causes
• Describe new therapies for several common skin conditions and when to use them
• Identify when referral to a specialist is appropriate
• Discuss the recognition, diagnosis and treatment of bacterial skin infections, drug reactions, dermatological disorders in children with skin of color, exanthems, acne vulgaris, hyperhidrosis, atopic dermatitis, moles and melanoma, disorders of hair and nails, skin signs of internal disease and pediatric dermatology pearls
