

Peanut Oral Immunotherapy Study of Early Intervention for Desensitization
(POSEIDON Study)

Does your child have a peanut allergy?

Ann & Robert H. Lurie Children's Hospital of Chicago is currently enrolling volunteers for an Oral Immunotherapy (OIT) clinical trial for peanut allergy studying the use of AR101; a medication which contains peanut allergen in the form of peanut flour that may help the body naturally lessen the severity of its reaction to peanuts.

If your child is 1 to 3 years old and has a peanut allergy, they may be eligible.

All study-related visits and laboratory tests are provided at no cost.

For more information email us at AllergyResearch@luriechildrens.org or call us at (312) 227-6474

Principal Investigator: Rachel Robison, MD

This study is IRB #2019-2836,
Rachel Robison, MD, Principal Investigator
The content of this flier has been approved by the Lurie Children's IRB.